Hi.I use the old method of importing a model and the terrain profile for Sketch up.However, at this time for a study at the university I wanted to try a way to import all 3D data from a given region (as we can see and, navigation on google earth).Right now I have this in the sketch up:Its possible?Thank you so much And I intended to have this: 1 Like The 3D data in Google Earth/Google Maps cannot be imported into any other application. Nowadays the data in SketchUp Pro comes from OpenStreetMap. SketchUp Extension Warehouse: PlaceMaker ($) 1 Like so does the new SketchUp not have the google earth import tool? or is there any of the current subscription versions that do? SketchUp hasnt gotten terrain or imagery from Google for years. It comes from Digital Globe or other sources. Terrain data and imagery are available in SketchUp Pro SketchUp does still import KMZ files from Google Earth, but for it to be of much use you would have selected a 3D site that was originally made in SketchUp.The amazing street view texture importing did go away once the deal between Google and Trimble ended, around 2015. hello,the 3d warehouse image search function clearly indicates it is possible to paste from clipboard. I am able to do so in my browser (using firefox mostly, typing ctrl+v bring up a menu with a paste option.)but it does not work in sketchup pro. Does it act the same for you ?any thoughts ? 1 Like Hey paul.millet!Thank you for the feedback. I see what you are describing. It will work in SketchUp Desktop if I paste in the Images URL but not if I paste the image itself. There may be a snag in the CEF window inside of SketchUp. Im putting a ticket in for this now to see if we can get that working as expected.Cheers!Guz 1 Like I found out that this will require some adjustments in the client. In the near term we will remove that misleading line. Thank you again for bringing it to my attention!Guz Topic Replies Views Activity Welcome to our forums!
